also from prospects of peace in that country.

The money market was noticeably stronger to-day, owing to the increased demand for funds for stock market purposes. Time funds have been about normally low for several months and the inactivity of the securities market has been generally assigned as important cause of this condition. If the pronounced revival of business in the stock market results in a continuance of trading on a large scale it is expected that the money market will undergo a moderate transition. Activity in the bond market continues unabated, as is shown by the rapid absorption of bonds. A case in point is the almost immediate sais to-day of about $12,000,000 of Central New England Railway bonds. A further shipment of gold to Canada, in this instance $1,000,000, was arranged to-day. The continent traded activity in this
